

ABSTRACT

- An IP telephony network is made connectable to an existing PBX or other equipment connected to a PSTN via an IP telephone gateway/shuttle and relay and a remote hook flash allows a user with a remote IP terminal or POTS phone access to the features available on the existing PBX or other equipment.
- 5